Pastor's Corner

DEPRESSED?

Do you feel surrounded by forces much bigger than you? Ecumenical forces that rob you of your job, or at least of your money? Psycho-cultural forces that put a wedge between you and your children, you and your parents? Religious conceptions that estrange you from God? That make God feel distant, uncaring, unconcerned?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, this Sunday's readings are for you. In the first reading Isaiah tries to awaken the young inexperienced Ahaz, King of Judah. His kingdom was like a little Switzerland surrounded by super-powers, Assyria to the east, Egypt to the west, Damascus to the north. Each of them aggressively jockeying for positions, trying to dominate the region by making deals with one another at the expense of the smaller countries, outmanoeuvring them. Young Ahaz receives contradictory advices about which alliance would be best, how he should negotiate and compromise. He becomes very perplexed, frozen in his indecision. He cannot act. He feels powerless, depressed. A small nobody amidst uncaring forces. Don't you feel like that sometimes? Are we not like Ahaz?

The prophet Isaiah, author of our first reading, tries to encourage Ahaz: "Act boldly. Do not rely on your own resources, neither on your so-called allies and friends. Trust God. Ask a sign from God. Think big, envision great things. Ask for it. God cares for you. He promises to David your ancestor that his lineage will be preserved. But Ahaz is filled with false piety like us. That's why he answered, "I will not ask for you a sign," meaning, "I am not worthy. Who am I that God cares for me?" But God does give him a sign anyway. "The virgin shall bear a son and shall name him Emmanuel."

Now let us fast forward 750 years. Joseph is depressed too. He just learned from an unknown source that his fiancée Mary, the love of his life, is pregnant and he knows he is not the father. In those days, a just man would have to deliver his fiancée to the authorities because she should be stoned to death. And Joseph is a very just man! But he loves her. He would rather have her live, even if it is not with him. If he repudiates her in secret and her family sends her to a distant region, maybe Mary could live a decent life with the natural father of her child. As for him, he is at an impasse. He will not be happy without Mary, and people will make fun of him. Then in a dream, an angel tells him that the sign Ahaz refused 750 years ago will be given to him, a son of David too. "Joseph, son of David, do not be afraid to take Mary as your wife, for the child conceived in her is from the Holy Spirit." God is offering Joseph an impossibly glorious way out of his dilemma. He will live with Mary for the rest of his life and will be called to the unique role of parenting the Messiah, the Son of God. In his "son" Jesus, God will be present to him and to all of us. "Seek the kingdom of God, the will of God, and everything else will be given you."

The greatness of Joseph resides in his incredible hope. He accepts to dream as big as God. Where Ahaz failed, where even Isaiah did not fully understand, Joseph let God expand his mind beyond imagination. He let God open his sense of the possible.

We too are called to make God present here and now through His birth in us. What will we gain? Everything! All the signs that we ask for, all the dreams that we dream, they are all finally related to Christ. Whatever troubles you are in, psychological, financial, social, God is crying "I am the key, open your mind. Look for that Christmas sign."

God Bless you, Father Pierre
