SHARP FOCUS AND SOFT FOCUS

You are watching a good movie. A man and a woman, in that movie, come to a sidewalk cafe sitting face to face. As they get into a passionate conversation, because they are falling in love, they forget everything else around them. Their ultimate attention is given to that moment of ultimate importance. The cinematographer gives you a sense of their total presence to another by letting everything else in the background— the streets and other people— fall into a loose "soft" focus, a blur. You see very clearly only the man and the woman. You are drawn into their conversation— into their feelings for one another.

Keep this image in mind as we ponder today's Gospel. Jesus tells us that we all have an ultimate concern, that comes readily in our mind, a clear focus, that puts everything else in soft focus. The danger for us is that our ultimate focus may not be "big" enough to unify all our beings, all our lives. In fact, it might very well put God into soft focus, into the fuzzy background. We lose our awareness of God. He slowly disappears from our field of vision.

You may think, "No, it won't happen to me, I don't have any ultimate focus." Jesus says, "You do. There is always something, someone, in your life that is preferred to anything. I designed you like that so that you might order your whole life towards me. 'No one can serve two masters. He will hate the one and love the other, or be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and wealth.' Something has to get the focus."

Then, Jesus invites you to choose a focus that is big enough to bring all of you, all of your life, past, present and future into harmony and fulfillment. Is your ultimate concern about food, drink, clothing, or money, power, pleasure? These things are good but cannot be your ultimate focus. Why? Jesus says, "There is more to life than these things. You can pursue these things, but not as if they were of ultimate importance."

mate importance. Don't let them take all your attention. Rather pursue them in relation to Me, to My will. Otherwise you will be a slave of something lesser than you."

This is evident in addiction. Listen to this real story. A man developed an addiction to alcohol. His wife and children knew it but he was denying it. Every time, given the choice, he would drink. It was his ultimate focus, even though he was not clearly aware that he was losing sight of everything else. One day, he came back home from work, and found the house empty. A note was left on a table signed by his wife and all his children, "We love you. We will come back when you sign up with A.A. group..." He did and he stopped drinking and they came back.

Another example of an insufficient ultimate goal: romance. Many go from marriage to marriage because they are addicted to falling in love. This is an impossible pursuit. Romance cannot be the goal of your life. Marriage in view of someone and some goal greater than you is a great sub-goal that may help you focus on the Absolute Goal and find true joy. But separated from God, it cannot bring authentic fulfillment.

Again, another real story. In the sixties, a Dominican student was not given access to PhD studies in order to fulfill his goal as a university teacher. He was trying to compensate for his poor identity by having the prestigious letter PhD beside his name. He got so upset to be refused this recognition by the Dominicans, so he left the community. He went on to become slave to his ways to obtain a PhD in sociology. And when he did get it, he came to show it off to us. He had his revenge, but he had lost the main goal of his life, his calling to be a priest.

"Seek the Kingdom of God first, and everything else will be given to you as well." Jesus doesn't forbid us to seek these other things, But we need to seek Him first and above all the rest. He knows what we need.

Here is another "good news." If you put your focus on God first, you will still be able to remain actively aware of your sub-goals. Plus...they will come in the right order of priority. Why? Because God is not one being among others. He is the ground of all other beings. You can love Him in all the other beings that you love. In fact the love you have for God and this love for you will prevent you from being destroyed by the very abundance of life.

God bless you, Fr. Pierre
