*Love looks through a telescope;
 Envy through a microscope.*

E.C. McKENZIE

“This is the carpenter’s son!..... Where did the man get it all?.....and they took offence at him” (Mark 6: 1-6). Last Friday, rushing to get ready for the seminar in Nebraska, I came across this beautiful commentary on today’s Gospel, from Fr. Joseph G. Donders, in his book “With Hearts on Fire” (Twenty-Third Publications 1999)

“His own hometown and his own family wouldn’t believe in him. They wanted to cut him down to their size. This is a story all of us know. We probably know about it in two ways: We have been cut down to size by those related to us, and we ourselves have cut down to size those nearest to us.

‘A prophet is despised only in his own country and in his own house,’ Jesus says. You can hear how disappointed he is by the little word “only,” which he adds to his words: ‘A prophet is despised only in his own house.’ That wee word is at the same time an understatement and an exaggeration. He is not only despised in Nazareth. But the word expresses his disappointment. He was disappointed, too, because it meant that he couldn’t help them, as he would have liked to.

Their judgment on him was also a judgment on themselves. How could someone like them do the things Jesus did? It is the kind of fatal self-fulfilling prophecy that is no help to anyone. Because of their low self-esteem they would never be able to lift themselves out of their apathy.

Lifting others out of their apathy, showing them their greatness was exactly what Jesus had come to do. In his company people felt better and greater than they had ever thought possible before. It was the reason that those crowds of people surrounded him. At home it didn’t seem to work.” (J. Donders)

God Bless You, Fr. Pierre
